Scope of the collections

Lambeth Archives collects, makes available and preserves archives and published material relating to Lambeth and its people, past and present. These collections chart the growth and diverse histories of Lambeth over the centuries.

Lambeth Archives shares its building with the Minet Library, which was founded by William Minet in 1890 and whose collections of books, rare prints and manuscripts relating to the history of Lambeth and surrounding parishes that were formally part of the pre-1888 County of Surrey. Lambeth Archives is one of the largest local authority archive and local history libraries in London. The department is recognised as an official repository for council, manorial and certain public records.

Please do contact Lambeth Archives department if you have archives and local history material relating to the borough that you would like to pass to the service for permanent preservation.

Catalogues and digital resources

Printed material which forms part of the Local Studies material is listed on the Lambeth Libraries and Archives catalogues.

Some archive catalogues are listed on the National Archives Discovery portal

<https://discovery.nationalarchives.gov.uk/>

A large proportion of illustrations and images can be viewed for free on the Borough photos portal <https://boroughphotos.org/lambeth/> Prints can be purchased via the website or contact Lambeth Archives to purchase digital files and reproduction licenses.

Artworks owned by London Borough of Lambeth can be viewed for free here <https://artuk.org/>

There are also more comprehensive printed catalogues, index cards and other finding aids in the archives search room.

Abbreviations

Throughout the guide certain abbreviations will be used as follows:

LCC	London County Council
GLC	Greater London Council

Administration of Lambeth

From the sixteenth century Lambeth parish was governed by the vestry of St Mary's - the rector, churchwardens and worthy inhabitants. Acts of Parliament were passed, culminating in the 'Act of Elizabeth' in 1601, making parishioners liable for relief of the poor of the parish through a rating system, which was calculated according to the value of a person's property. This marked the beginning of the local government duties of the churchwardens and the vestry.

Over the two centuries the Parish became increasingly responsible for local administration, such as highway maintenance and street lighting. A Burial Board of 9 members was appointed in 1852. Under the Metropolis Local Management Act of 1855 a new authority was created. The new Lambeth Vestry was a secular body, although the rector and churchwardens were ex-officio members. Vestrymen were elected for a limited period from inhabitants with property qualifications. Separate bodies of commissioners were set up as a result of the vestry's adoption of the Public Libraries Act in 1886 and The Public Baths and Wash-houses Acts in 1890. Responsibility for burials, baths and washhouses was transferred to the Vestry in 1894. Local vestries were disbanded by an Act of 1899 and superseded by twenty-eight metropolitan borough councils. The Metropolitan Borough of Lambeth consisted of the area covered by the ancient parish of Lambeth plus a small part of the adjoining parish of Camberwell. The London Borough of Lambeth was formed in 1965 by a merger of the Metropolitan Borough of Lambeth with parts of the Metropolitan Borough of Wandsworth, namely Clapham and Streatham.

Administration of poor relief

In 1726 Lambeth opened its first parish workhouse on Workhouse Lane (later Princes Road and renamed again Black Prince Road) The building was superseded in 1873 by a new workhouse and infirmary built on Renfrew Road. Lambeth also operated a workhouse school on Elder Road, originally called the Norwood House of Industry 1810-c 1930. Under the Poor Law amendment Act of 1834, responsibility for local poor relief including Lambeth Workhouse passed to local Boards of Guardians. The administrative records of Lambeth Board of Guardians (including Lambeth Workhouse) are at the London Metropolitan Archives. Clapham and Streatham were part of the Wandsworth Poor Law Union and records are held at Wandsworth Local History Library and the London Metropolitan Archives.

1. Books and pamphlets

The local history library includes printed material relating to the diverse histories of Lambeth, London and Surrey, as well as general subjects such as local and family history and local government. Subject covered include archaeology, geography, geology, architecture, entertainment, transport, militia, sport, religion, social history and biography. There is a collection of bound pamphlets relating to all aspects of Surrey life (including Lambeth) of over 2000 items.

The current classification scheme is based on the categorical tables which precede the main tables in Brown's Subject Classification (1939). The subject numbers have a prefix indicating locality. For example, a book on a Brixton church would have the classification number 16/713 - 16 for Brixton and 713 for churches. A bibliography at the end of this guide lists the standard published works on the history of Lambeth.

The current collection policy can be summarised as follows:

Non-fiction material relating to the area covered by the present London Borough of Lambeth

Fictional material set in Lambeth

Some material relating to those areas that adjoin the borough e.g. Camberwell, Mitcham, Southwark.

Material relating to London or South London as a whole if relevant.

Material relating to Surrey if it complements Lambeth's history.

Relevant general reference material such as social history, local history, family history, guides to records in other locations

2. Periodicals

The Department has a wide selection of periodicals including current issues and extensive back files of related general, London and Lambeth titles. The list includes many local history society and family history titles. There may be gaps in some serials.

6. Electoral registers

The Borough of Lambeth as constituted in 1832 comprised the parish of St. Giles, Camberwell, the parish of St. Mary Newington and the northern half of the parish of St Mary Lambeth. The division of Lambeth parish was along Acre Lane to St Matthew's Church Brixton, and then along an imaginary line drawn due east from St. Mathews to Red Post Hill.

In 1885 the boundaries of the Parliamentary borough were redrawn and became coextensive with those of the Parish of Lambeth. Lambeth Archives has voters registers for the Parliamentary Borough of Lambeth from 1832 to present. Electoral Registers 1832- 1868 are arranged by parish/division and then alphabetical by surname. From then onwards the electoral registers are arranged by constituency/polling district/ward and are often (but not always) street indexed. Please note that before 1965 Clapham and Streatham were part of the Metropolitan Borough of Wandsworth. Therefore, Lambeth Archives only holds post-1965 electoral registers for Clapham and Streatham. Due to current legislation, electoral registers that are 10 years old or less may be viewed, handwritten notes may be made but electronic copying is prohibited.

7. Illustrations

Lambeth Archive's rich visual collection numbers over 30,000 and includes engravings, etchings, drawings, water-colours, oil paintings, postcards, photographic prints and digital images. The collection documents the work and activities of Lambeth Council; the borough's changing landscape; its streets and buildings, many of which no longer exist; industries, trades and business, special events and its local personalities and communities.

A significant proportion of our collection highlights can be viewed for free and purchased here. Many are scanned copies of originals that we have in the archives and some are born digital <https://boroughphotos.org/lambeth/>

Collection highlights include:

Photographs taken by Lambeth Council including Lambeth Civil Defence (ref. LBL/CD) , Town Planning (Ref. LBL/DTP) and Public Relations (ref. LBL/CE/PR)

23. Family, personal papers and private estate records
Surrey deeds collection Individual legal documents mostly deeds and mainly covering Lambeth. The documents are catalogued in numerical sequence and number roughly 18,000. There are person name (for principle people) and place indexes, and also catalogue abstracts/calendar of deeds. For pre-registration deeds of property once owned by Lambeth Council see section 11 Directorate of Administration and Legal Services (ref. LBL/DALS).		Class I
Papers of Major A.J. Angel Relating to the Streatham Battalion of the Home Guard 1940 - 1945	1940 - 1945	IV/95
Percy Anthony photograph (glass negatives) Family photographs of Mr Anthony, a photographer of Crescent Lane, Clapham	1945-1950	IV/153
Apprenticeship indentures 289 indentures, the majority from the Female Orphan Asylum, Lambeth and others relating to numerous Surrey parishes,	18th and 19th centuries	Class III
Charles Attwood, architect Charles Attwood worked as an architect for Edward Hollamby, Lambeth Council's Director of Development, from the late 1960s and through the 1970s. This was a period when Hollamby was actively redeveloping large areas of Lambeth as public housing and for community use, while moving away from earlier high rise or system-built schemes towards a low-rise brick-built vernacular architecture. Attwood felt that 'Ted was my mentor'; he joined the BDD office shortly after Hollamby became director, rose to become Group Leader under him in a large	1968-1981	V/318

office before following him in 1981 to a job in the London Docklands Development Corporation (LDDC). This portfolio of drawings and photographs was Attwood's personal one and one can assume that the schemes it contains were ones that Attwood worked on. They are almost all designs for the London Borough of Lambeth: "Tulse Hill Housing" (Cressingham Gardens Estate) and nursery school [1969], Brixton Recreation Centre [1970], Cumberlow Lodge Intensive Care Unit [1974], Clive Road Development and Rehabilitation, including community centre and sheltered housing [1974-9]; Netley Waterside House; "Brixton Town Centre Housing" (St John's Crescent); Angell Road Children's Home [1974]; West Norwood Library [1968-9]; Norwood Community Centre (Park Hall Rd.); St James' Crescent housing. Two non-Lambeth jobs (Royal Opera House and Bexleyheath Council Offices) may represent Attwood's private work.
Vera Awdrey of Clapham; war-time ephemera Vera Awdrey lived at 14 Franconia Road, Clapham. She started the series of cuttings books with the outbreak of war in August 1939. The bulk of the contents are cuttings from the national and local press describing the progress of the war. However, there is also, particularly in the early volumes, a considerable amount of other material including diary notes, correspondence with friends and relatives, and papers relating to Mrs Audrey's service in the Metropolitan Police and ephemera including food wrappers and government notices. A photograph of Mrs Awdrey in uniform is in volume 4.	1939-1946	IV/169
W. J. Badley MS of prayers and thoughts by W.J. Badley composed after hearing sermons by the Rev. J. Rhodes at Vauxhall Chapel and Sunday School.	1870 – 1888	IV/268

Baker and Walter family of Clapham papers William Baker (1835-1901) and family lived at 32 Union Grove and later moved to Larkhall Rise. The family was in the meat trade, and they had musical interests and held concerts at home. Henry Walter (1818-1883) was an oilman, living at 45 Surrey Place. The elder son William (1844-1942) ran a dry salters shop and lived with his family at 417 Wandsworth Road. The Baker and Walter families were connected by two marriages: Elizabeth Baker married Arthur William Walter, and her brother Arthur Joseph married his sister Ages Maud. The collection includes papers and photographs.
Baker family of Dulwich – cuttings scrap book - Dulwich, Herne Hill and Norwood	19--	IV/164
Dr Barsham, medical practitioner of Clapham Register of cases. No trace can be found of a doctor of this name in the South London area but the addresses of some of the patients in 1869 are in Wandsworth Road and Clapham. Notes on patients are mostly sparse, and much of the book has not been used.	1848-1873	IV/118
Henry Beaufoy (philanthropist) correspondence etc Correspondence and papers regarding establishment of Lambeth Ragged School, Doughty Street, (renamed Newport Street), Vauxhall in 1851.	1847-1851	IV/71
The Berry family of Streatham In 1907 Frederick William Berry married Anna Louisa Danielsohn and they moved to a house in Prentis Road, Streatham. Frederick worked for Thomson Brothers Stationers of Knightrider St. London E.C.1. becoming managing director in 1897. He was a Renter Warden of the Stationers Company, a member of the Court of Common Council of the Corporation of London and was made a Freeman of the City of London in 1894.	1905-1993	IV/215

Frederick and Anna had three children, Freda, Greta and Eric. Freda and Greta attended Streatham College for Girls. Freda became a teacher and later emigrated to Newfoundland. During the War she was a Canadian naval officer. She died in 1988. Greta was a teacher but also worked as a photographic model between the 1930's and 1950's modelling for subjects as diverse as "Stork" margarine and the wartime Civil Nursing Reserve. Eric was a graduate of the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts, winning the Silver Medal in 1932. He had a long career in film and stage mainly as an actor but he also directed some theatrical productions in America. He played a leading role in the first Broadway productions of "The Boyfriend" and "Pippin". The latter part of his career was spent exclusively in the USA. He died in 1993. The collection includes papers, scrap books and photographs.
Boakes and Cooper families These records appear to have belonged to Mildred Mary Boakes (nee Cooper) (1886-1973). Mary spent her childhood living in Clapham and Herne Hill. Mary and Charles Boakes married in 1909. They had four daughters and lived at No 50 Egremont Road, West Norwood from 1968-1973.	1894-1945	IV/285

Papers of Cllr. Charles Dennis, Mayor of Lambeth 1961-1962 Albert Charles Dennis lived in St Marys Gardens, Kennington on the Walcot Estate. He worked for London Transport as an electrician. From 1949 he served as a Labour councillor for Bishops and subsequently Vauxhall wards. He was variously chair of the Public Services and Civil defence committees. In 1961 he was chosen to serve as mayor; at the age of 42 he was then the youngest mayor selected for the borough of Lambeth. Includes Cuttings book, engagements diary, civic ceremonial guide, correspondence and ephemera.	1961-1962	IV/196
Charles Tennyson D'Eyncourt (1784- 1861) and Lambeth Parliamentary elections Tennyson adopted the name D'Eyncourt in 1852 (This date has been disputed. It has been claimed that he took this name in 1835 on the death of his father.) to comply with the wishes of his late father. His parliamentary career began in 1818 when he represented Grimsby [see IV/3/1]. In 1826 he became M.P. for Bletchingly and in 1832 he stood in the first Lambeth Borough elections and was returned to Parliament. This sample provides an insight into the maintenance and minor works that Charles Foote carried out on properties in Lambeth and Wandsworth.	1966-1982	IV/313
Colonel Charles Ford, cuttings Cuttings books of Colonel Charles Ford, the North Lambeth liberal member for the London County Council in the 1890s. The cuttings book comprises local and national press cuttings, letters and notices of public meetings and election ephemera. The contents of the book reveal Ford's involvement in contemporary	1897-1900	IV/206 issues, including overcrowding and workers' housing and the implications of the extension to Waterloo Station of 1898 and consequent loss of housing; the construction by the L& SWR of dwellings at Boniface Street; the North Lambeth Rehousing Committee; and the creation and opening of Archbishops Park in 1900.

Papers of Rev. Paul Gedge, North Lambeth Personal papers of Paul Gedge: some earlier church material; parish letters; Gedge's campaign against demolition of the church; historical and biographical notes and obituaries, photographs of the parish; two books by Paul Gedge. The photographs represent a personal view of the damage caused by bombing to the Carlisle Lane area in World War II. They also show some of the people and children who lived in the area during and after the war.	1940-1958	IV/209
Florence Gillings' ephemera (1922-?), Brixton Central School, Hackford Road Florence Gillings born at 40 Foreign Street, Camberwell in 1922 attended Brixton Central School from September 1933 to April 1938. The school provided education to specially selected girls aged 11-16. Records include exercise books, school leaving certificate, school reports, LCC Junior County Scholarship Exam 1933, three photographs, handkerchief, school tie, enamel badge, miscellaneous test and exam papers, a history of Florence Gillings' time at Brixton Central School in the 1930s.	1930s	IV/263
CA Gordon, newspaper cuttings books These cuttings files were compiled by Claude Arthur Gordon (1905-1998), a lifelong resident of Streatham with an interest in local history. The cuttings are arranged alphabetically under place headings and then by subject. The collection dates from the 1950s to the 1990s but includes some cuttings of late 19th and early 20th century date. Interspersed among the cuttings are items of ephemera, booklets, picture postcards and photographs. This is a general collection of cuttings with a bias	1950s-1990s	IV/237 towards local history and covering many South London areas.

Graham and Polhill families of Clapham The Graham family of Edmond Castle, Cumberland, became linked with Clapham through the marriage, in 1791, of Thomas Graham with Elizabeth Susannah Davenport. Her father, John, a wealthy merchant (he was Master of the Merchant Taylors' Company in 1775) and woollen draper to the King had bought a large estate on Clapham Common Northside, near the present Sugden Road. Thomas and Elizabeth had five children, Thomas Henry, John, Elizabeth Maria, (known as Maria), Emily and Ann Margaret. After Thomas' death in 1813 his eldest son inherited Edmond Castle but the children continued to live with their widowed mother at The Hall for some years. John moved to Rose Lodge (later Northfield) Clapham in 1833, and returned to The Hall on his mother's death in 1844. He left in 1853, and in 1886 the estate was sold for development Of his three sisters, Maria remained unmarried, and was instrumental in the building of St George's Church, Battersea with its associated school and vicarage. Emily married the Rev Thomas Collins, and Anne married Edward Polhill. The Polhill family had a large house on the site of Crescent Grove. The collection consists of verses, letters and a year's edition of the Family Chronicle, a newspaper produced by the children detailing the week's happenings in an imitation of grand society reporting. Many of the other verses may have been intended for this Chronicle (also known as the Strawseat Chronicle), which appears to have continued for longer than the year's editions preserved here. The verses by Mrs Graham are particularly interesting as she had published, under the pseudonym Theresa Tidy, a popular work called Eighteen Maxims on Neatness and Order.	1803-1857	IV/4

Heckthorne, Charles W. of S Lambeth and Vauxhall, cuttings book Charles William Heckthorn was born in Switzerland in 1829. Subsequently a naturalised British subject, he was living at 67 South Lambeth Road by the late 1870s, and lived at the same address until at least 1902. By 1905 the house had become the Wheatsheaf Hall Young Men's Institute. He described himself as a gentleman and, in the 1881 census, was living alone with a housekeeper. The cuttings and ephemera assembled by Heckthorn provide a detailed record of events in South Lambeth and Vauxhall in the late 19th century, including the history and acquisition of Vauxhall Park, the rebuilding of Vauxhall Bridge, local and parliamentary elections, places of entertainment and local worthies. Significant items are indexed in the subject, map and picture indexes.	1880-1900	IV/155

Montague Long papers Montague Long was for fifty years Secretary of the South London and Lower Norwood Co-operative Building Companies. He was also the tax collector for the Lower Norwood district. Both these occupations are reflected in the papers, which also include some private items. An additional donation of a selection of family photographs was made in 1989. The collection includes Lower Norwood tax collection records 1884 - 1906; rent book 1899 - 1901; cash book 1904 - 1916; life insurance documents 1894 - 1899; household accounts 1942 - 1965; family photographs 1895 - 1935	1884-1965	IV/115
Morris, Olive, black community activist (1952-1979) Olive Morris was a Black community activist working during the late 1960s and 1970s in South London (Brixton) and Manchester. Born in Jamaica in 1952, she migrated to the UK at the age of nine to join her parents and siblings. Olive Morris became involved in community activism around 1968, as the British Black Power Movement was gathering momentum. Olive was a member of the Brixton core of the British Black Panther Movement, where she was part of the Youth Section together with Linton Kwesi Johnson, Neil Kenlock and Clovis Reid, and the BPM Sisters Collective with Althea Johnson, Leila Hussain and Beverly Bryan. Olive Morris was central to the squatters' campaign of that decade. Together with Liz Obi they opened the 121 Railton Road squat in 1973, resisting 3 illegal evictions. In 1975 she enrolled to read social sciences at the University of Manchester and received her degree in 1978. While in Manchester she became involved with community groups in Moss Side, and was an active member of the Manchester Black Women's Cooperative (later to be re-formed as Abasindi Women's Coop) and the Black	1967-2000	IV/279

Women's Mutual Aid Group. During her years at University she also worked with the National Coordinating Committee of Overseas Students campaigning for the abolition of overseas student fees. In 2006 Brixton-based artist Ana Laura Lopez de la Torre initiated the project Do you remember Olive Morris?, launching a blog in collaboration with Liz Obi on the 1st October 2007 at Minet Library, as part of Black History Month 2007. In 2008 the Remembering Olive Collective (ROC) - a group of women of diverse ages and backgrounds - was formed in Brixton with the aim of creating public memories of Olive Morris and the campaigns and organisations she worked for. The collection includes personal documents, photographs and reminiscence by people who knew or associated with Olive Morris.
Mrs. Nicholls, papers Includes household accounts and bills	1942-1984	IV/146
Bernard Palmer of Streatham Bernard Palmer was an artist and draughtsman who first lived and worked in Mitcham Lane, Streatham, where his parents ran a shop. In the First World War he served in the Royal Engineers in France and Belgium. He subsequently appears to have worked as a commercial artist for various firms including Albert Craske. The collection is in part a portfolio of Palmer's personal and commercial work including advertisements, book plates and letter heads. It also contains drawings and illustrations he made while on war service and includes some family photographs and material. It is a good source for contemporary commercial design in the 1920s and 1930s and for depictions of battleground landscapes in France and Belgium.	1884-1947	IV/297

Alan Rolfe, actor (1908-2005) Personal papers of Alan Rolfe. Rolfe's diaries are an extraordinary series of records and give considerable information on his personal activities and commentary on events taking place worldwide. Almost every day has an entry and information given ranges from the mundane: the weather (very frequently) to domestic arrangements and birthdays; to professional engagements, and the fees paid, and (regular) visits to films, theatre and the opera. There are also notes of national and international events. His memorabilia is of a varied nature, but broadly demonstrate his main preoccupations in life: world war II and, in later life, crime. Curiously, there is little about his theatrical career except a cd of an interview with Terry Wogan.	1918-2006	IV/309
Mrs H Ryckter of Brixton- ephemera Letters and postcards of Mrs Ryckter of Halliwell Road, Brixton	1876-1930	IV/145
